Launch of the new Poland Feasibility tool: Support for Clinical Trial Sponsors

We are pleased to announce the launch of our new Poland Feasibility Tool, which will improve the planning and conducting of clinical trials in Poland. This tool has been designed for clinical trial sponsors – both commercial and non-commercial – to facilitate the identification of appropriate centers that provide healthcare services to patients with specific medical conditions based on ICD-10 classification.

What is Poland Feasibility Tool?

Poland Feasibility is a tool that supports the process of identifying clinical centers that have the largest number of patients with a specific medical condition in their database (based on ICD-10 classification).

What does Poland Feasibility offer?

1. Preliminary identification of centers – The tool enables for quick and precise identification of potential clinical trial centers in Poland that provide healthcare services for specific medical conditions.
2. Presentation of results – The results are presented in the form of tables and maps, showing which centers in Poland have the largest number of patients with specific conditions.
3. Data reliability – The tool is based on Open Data from the National Health Fund.

Benefits of using Poland Feasibility

Poland Feasibility supports clinical trial sponsors, enabling faster and more efficient planning and execution of trials. With precise data, this tool will help optimise the site selection process, reducing the time needed to start a trial, and improving its quality and efficiency.

We believe that Poland Feasibility will become an invaluable support for both trial sponsors and patients who will benefit from new opportunities arising from clinical trials.

Join us! We encourage you to explore the tool and take advantage of its features. Poland Feasibility is a step towards the future of clinical trials in Poland – faster, more precise, and more accessible to patients.

We also encourage you to learn about the services provided by the Sponsor Support Center, which will help you fully utilize the potential of the Poland Feasibility tool and effectively plan clinical trials.
